Do I need 500ah cells?

Not a direct answer to your question, but you don't necessarily need 500Ah cells. You can just as well parallel 5 x 100Ah cells. Yes, that's true but I have a space issue on the boat and so trying to find the right balance. I want to point out that High Discharge cells capable of 3C are out there just for these sorts of applications.

Is the Sinopoly 500A a good balance?

The Sinopoly 500a seems to be a good balance. I'm just hoping to get straight answers from the vendor. Yes, that's true but I have a space issue on the boat and so trying to find the right balance. Smaller cells give more options for filling the available, irregular spaces on a boat... @Seawalker

"Absorb end amps" is sometimes scaled to the size of the battery cell. Basically a 400Ah cell will have a higher absorb end amps than a 100Ah cell. Can think of it like the "cell is a stadium" and the "charge is people trying to go in". At the begin of charge, it's very easy to find a seat and the people walking in do not slow down in the hallways.
